

PAPERS Online Program Event

Wednesday, September 21, 2016 – 10:30 a.m.

PAPERS (PA Association of Public Employee Retirement Systems) is pleased to announce its next educational offering in a series of free webinars and we hope you'll consider participating.

Online session participants enrolled in the PAPERS Public Pension Certified Professional (PPCP) certification program will receive one PPCP credit for participation in this webinar. Details about the PPCP program may be found below.

A Closer Look at: Domestic Fixed Income Instruments

Presented by: Ryan Labs Asset Management
Sean McShea, President

See reverse for more information about this speaker.

This session and two that will follow later in the year are part of a series of presentations featuring in-depth discussion about the attributes of various asset classes. Questions to be addressed include:

- What are the characteristics associated with the asset class?
- What to expect from the class - volatility, risks, and historical returns?
- Types of managers and products associated with the asset class?
- What the various style approaches mean to a portfolio?
- How to get value from the class from active management?
- What are the various and most appropriate benchmarks to use in evaluating an active manager?

Advance registration to participate in this webinar is requested.

To register for the July 20th online session, please contact PAPERS in advance by e-mail: pa-pers@comcast.net.

The purpose of the PAPERS Online program is two-fold

- First, the online program is designed to be a convenient way for the PAPERS membership to continue its educational experience. From the comfort of your desk, participants will be able to keep up to date with industry trends, news, and valuable information.
- Secondly, the online program is designed to supplement PPCP participants' efforts in acquiring course credits towards their certification. Certification must be completed in a three year timeframe and the online program offers participants an opportunity to make up credits from missed conferences or just to further their progress towards certification.

For complete details about the PAPERS PPCP Program or for an enrollment application, please visit the PAPERS website <http://www.pa-pers.org/newweb/cert.html>.

The online sessions are free for PPCP participants as well as the general PAPERS membership.
